WE'RE NOW READY TO START THE 2015-2016 SEASON

For our team it's our 57th season. There have been many changes over the years but one thing remains the same and that is our commitment to growing and developing young players in the game we all love.

This year we have a lot of Fort Erie kids, players who have built a lot of experience over the last few seasons and who will bring a lot to the team this year. We know that we have to build a strong and talented team and we are well on our way to doing that with the talent we have on hand.

The affiliations we developed with the other teams in the Ontario Junior Hockey League continue and help to give our players the opportunity they need to grow in their hockey careers.

The Meteors strive to be a valuable part of the community by raising money for Breast Cancer and other charitable causes in our town.

There are many volunteers who work tirelessly behind the scenes to help the Meteors along the way. They help from program sales, to hot dog sales to coaching. We appreciate everything that everyone does for our team. We especially appreciate our fans who come out game after game and support us.

Thanks to all. We look forward to seeing everyone at the rink.

Yours in hockey.

COACHES CORNER

Rob Hubbert
Head coach

Rob Hubbert is back behind the bench coaching the Fort Erie Meteors this season.

With more than 15 years of coaching experience under his belt, Hubbert is no stranger to hockey.

He joined the Meteors last year after having spent three years guiding the Junior C Chippawa Riverhawks. He has also coached Junior B teams in Welland and Port Colborne.

It's too early to predict how well the Meteors will do this season but Hubbert is hopeful.

"All I can say is so far so good," Hubbert said.

"I like the young guys we've got. We've got four 16 year-olds that are going to be a real pleasure to watch (this season)."

Hubbert said the Meteors will be a "young and dynamic team" this season.

"We've lost some players like Anthony Passero and Rich Demarco. Those guys are hard to replace," he said.

"But you've got guys who played a limited role last year that are going to have to step up their game and fill those voids."

This year's coaching staff includes assistant coaches Kevin Dobrint and Chris Lukey, with trainers Lee Randall and Gary Force.

"This year, we made a change. We brought in Chris Lukey. He's going to bring some skill development to our coaching staff. Kevin Dobrint's back. (President) Joe Fazio and myself are here and we're still looking for a goalie coach," Hubbert said.

"We've interviewed a few people but we haven't come to a conclusion on a goalie coach."

Hubbert said the coaching staff have done a "good job" at recruiting a new team.

"At the end of the day, we want to be a young team. We want to stay out of the penalty box and we want to be able to capitalize on our opportunities."

Hubbert said he runs a tight ship and won't accept anything but hard working and disciplined players.

"I want (the Meteors) to be hard working and disciplined. People get mad at me because of it but I want them to stay disciplined," Hubbert said.

"That's the only way you're going to win games."

Although it means long nights for him, Hubbert said coaching the Meteors is "fun" and he remains dedicated to helping the team's players improve.

"At the end of the day, it's about developing hockey players in this organization. That's where we want to be. We want to keep developing hockey players so we can move them on to bigger and better things. That's what Junior B is all about."

The Greater Ontario Junior Hockey League season's regular season kicks off in September with the Meteors' home opener against the Welland Junior Canadians. Game time is 7:15 p.m.

Carol Sims

No one dared to say anything bad to Carol Sims "about her boys."

"If you said anything bad about the Meteors to her, you better be ready for a fight," Fort Erie Meteors operations manager Tony Passero said.

Sims volunteered for the Fort Erie Meteors for more than 25 years and was considered to be the junior B team's biggest fan.

According to Passero, Sims was "the best volunteer that any team, or organization could have."

Sims attended every game she could whether it was at the Fort Erie Leisureplex or in another town or city.

"She was a fixture in every arena," Passero said. "You would see the little fireball in the corner. Whether she was having a popcorn or having a coffee, Carol was always there watching the game."

Sims died on Jan. 14 of cancer. She was 56.

Sims began volunteering for the Meteors when she took her niece Cheryl Slat and her nephew Sean Slat to a game. After watching one game, Cheryl Slat said her aunt loved the action on the ice and "the rest was history." Sims began volunteering for the junior B team, selling programs and $0/$50 tickets every Saturday night. She also attended every fundraising event and every awards banquet to take photographs.

Sims didn't just love watching hockey, she became a mother figure to hundreds of junior B players over the years.

"Aunt Carol met about 650 Meteors players and she adopted them all," Slat said. "She got to know their parents and even their girlfriends."

Sims always remembered each player on his birthday and would send out well wishes.

"I don't know how she managed to keep track of it all but she sent all these boys birthday cards over the years. She even sent cards to guys that played five years ago or more."

Sims also spent countless hours searching for news clippings about every hockey game. When she clipped out an article Sims would make a photocopy for each team member and deliver it to them every Saturday night. By the end of the year, each player would have a scrapbook that recorded every triumph and every loss for the Fort Erie team.

"Tony (Passero) had also asked her to collect every article she could find from the last 50 years for the team's 50th anniversary," Slat said.

"She did it and spent many hours at the Fort Erie Public Library. I can't even count the hours Aunt Carol spent searching through microfilm. But she did it. She'd do anything for her boys.

After Sims collected all of the news clippings, she lovingly bound decades of the Junior B team's history in three orange booklets for safe keeping. She also included stats, photographs and programs from awards banquets and other Meteors events.

Slat is following in her aunt's footsteps and will continue to volunteer for the Fort Erie Meteors on Saturday nights at the Fort Erie Leisureplex.

"I will never replace her but I will pick up where Aunt Carol left off. But nobody will ever come close to replacing her. The guys [the Meteors] are taking it pretty hard."

"Whether you knew her for three days or 30 years, Carol was a friend to everyone and she would do anything for you," Sims' sister Kathy Slat said.

"She will be missed, especially by the Meteors. She meant so much to them and they meant so much to her" Written by Sarah Ferguson

HE WAS SUCH A GREAT GUY!

Remembering Andy Passero

As the Fort Erie Junior B Meteors get ready for their 2015/16 season they will again honour a man that devoted so much of his life and heart to hockey.

That man was Andy Passero, whose life was taken at the age of 39 on October 22, 2009 after he was involved in a car accident. Passero left behind his wife, two boys, family and more friends than anyone could ever imagine.

No matter who you ask about who Andy was, his friends and family all have the same thing to say, "He lit up every room he walked into. His smile and passion was infectious to say the least."

Andy was known for his superb business sense but in the local sports circuit he was the guy that loved kids and would give anything for them.

"All of the kids really loved him," says his wife Maria.

Andy had coaching his two sons, Mac and Drew, when they were both four years old. According to Maria, Andy was extremely passionate about not only teaching his sons, but other children. He took pride in his team and devoted a lot of his time to them.

Since his passing, Maria said the number of memorial events held in Andy's name has been overwhelming at times... but she knows people want to honour him because he never hesitated to help anyone if he was able to.

"Even if he didn't know you, he'd help you out in a heartbeat."

Andy was a friend to everyone, including strangers. In honour of his memory, St. Philomena Elementary School now awards a student each year with the Friendship Award. This award goes to a student who is selfless, kind, caring and compassionate.

One of Andy's favorite things to do in his spare time was to fish. After Andy's passing, a good friend of his, James Dunn, organized the 1st annual Andy Passero Memorial Bass Classic. This event continues and this past August the 6th annual event, was held at the Millers Creek Marina with all proceeds going to Alivia's Rainbows (visit aliviasrainbows.com)

Andy also had a passion for horses that started at a young age with his grandfather. Andy, his wife and two friends then, owned MAD Racing Stables and owned several beautiful horses. The Fort Erie Race Track now holds a Andy Passero Memorial Race each September to commemorate his passion.

The Meteors also dedicate much of their season to Andy, as he was such an instrumental piece to the organization both financially and morally. A piece of Andy will always live on in the hearts of the individuals that he mentored, befriended and stood beside.

"He was a friend to strangers, a friend to everybody."

A LOOK BACK WITH NIK PASSERO

Nik Passero hopes to follow in his father's foot steps and coach hockey.

"One of the biggest reasons why I joined the Meteors was my dad," Passero said about his dad, Tony Passero, the operations manager of the Junior B Fort Erie Meteors.

Junior B hockey is a family affair for the Passeros. Nik's younger brother, Anthony Passero, was also a member of the Meteors and last year's captain.

"I want to coach when I am older and there is no better place to start than right here at home (at the Fort Erie Leisureplex)." Passero played for the Fort Erie Meteors from 2009 until 2014 and he was selected as team captain in his final year.

The 22-year-old, who was born and raised in Fort Erie, continues to maintain an active role in the success of the Fort Erie Meteors as he assists in running training camps prior to the hockey season.

"There's nothing better than when it (hockey) finally clicks and you're playing well," he said.

"I've been telling the guys there is nothing better than waking up knowing you get to play hockey at the Leisureplex."

Passero credits his past coaches including Chris Johnstone and Wayne Groulx with shaping him into a competitive hockey player.

To Passero, there's no better place to play Junior B hockey than at the Fort Erie Leisureplex.

"I've played in a lot of arenas and I really think that we have one of the best facilities in Canada."

Passero is currently playing hockey at Westfield State in Massachusetts, where he is completing a degree in business management.

"It's a four-year program and I am really enjoying it," Passero said.

According to Passero, playing hockey has taught him valuable life lessons.

"It has taught me how to keep my emotions in check and how to work well with other people."

Although most of his time is spent on the ice, or training for the game, Passero never tires of playing hockey.

"There just something about coming to the arena every night," he said.

"It's the atmosphere and the people. You continue to get better every day, every time you practice and that's huge."

MESSAGE FROM THE CAPTAINS

Defensemen Paolo Sivilotti is proud to wear the 'C' jersey for the Fort Erie Meteors during his third season with the Junior B team.

The honour of being selected as this year's team leader came as a surprise to Sivilotti but it's an honour he is looking forward to.

"It's exciting now that I am here and I get to lead a great group of guys and teach them how to play and how to get better in this league," he said.

"We've got a young team but with this group of captains we've got here I think we're going to do really good. We'll teach the younger guys a few things and have a good season."

Sivilotti said one of the most important traits for any hockey player is confidence and one of his goals is to help his fellow players feel confident on the ice.

"The biggest thing (for a hockey player to have on the ice) is confidence. More than anything else, if you play this game with confidence, you will do well."

A passion for competition is also essential for any hockey player.

"We're looking for people that want to win, know the game and compete hard every time they play. That's the biggest thing we look for because if your compete level isn't there, you're not going to win."

Sivilotti said it's also important that his team mates keep it simple and work together.

"Don't make it difficult, don't try to do trick plays and you'll do just fine."

According to Sivilotti, hockey teaches valuable life lessons about teamwork, camaraderie and sportsmanship—lessons that can only be learned in the arena.

"(Hockey) is a whole different aspect of what the world is like. This is stuff you won't learn in school or any place else," he said.

"It's an unreal experience. You're playing the best game in the world."

Sivilotti will be joined on the ice by his alternate captains Alex Hurren, Bryce Martin and Mac Passero.

Hurren, a forward in his third year with the Meteors has played minor hockey in Fort Erie for a number of years.

He said joining Fort Erie's Junior B team "was the next best step."

Martin, a second-year defenseman grew up in Fort Erie and always "wanted to be part of the team."

"It's a bonus to get to be one of the captains with four of the best friends that I grew up with."

Passero, who plays centre is currently in his fourth season with the Meteors.

He said he hopes to teach his fellow team mates "a few things and help them learn all about the game."
